Install Firefox on your Desktop PC. Q: Gaussian curve for different variable So I have a dataframe with a column with values between 0 and 100. I want to generate a gaussian probability density that takes this values into account. The idea is simple, at every value I need to add a gaussian shaped curve on top of this standard Gaussian. To clarify, I have a dataframe with the values (2,4,5,9). To generate this new dataframe, I need to add a new column between 0 and 100 that is the average of the dataframe and the gaussian curve at that value. I try using a lambda function, but it doesn't work. The gaussian is normalised at 1. I also tried using dplyr but it doesn't work. I try using something like this: `df %>% mutate(float = sample(100, n = n(), replace = TRUE), gaus = runif(length(df$float), 0.1, 100)) %>% mutate(new_flo = mean(df$float))` A: If you want to create a distribution with the mean of your dataframe, you can use `stat_density_2d` to do this (from here): `require(ggplot2) require(rstats) m edd6d56e20`
