Keyboard Macro is an useful program that allows its users to set several macros using the combination of keyboard keys and then activate them with just one click. The software is compatible with all sorts of windows including: Microsoft Word, PowerPoint and Excel as well as with all editions of the popular browser Mozilla Firefox. The macros can be created using the on-screen keyboard or can be programmed using the internal help menu, which is usually situated at the bottom of the screen. Keyboard Macro makes it easy to use keyboard commands or functions with just one click, thereby saving time and energy. Users of this program can create macros to execute various operations that are common on the computer, such as opening the browser, launching a specific application or searching and launching files. Once the user has selected the desired operation, all he has to do is to simply press the corresponding key on the keyboard and the command is activated without any further effort. The Keyboard Macro program uses Hotkey control for activating the operation and will immediately launch the command with the exact same parameters that were input at the time of creation. To save the user's time, the program will also enable him to create the program in such a way that it will immediately launch all the commands with just a single click of the mouse. This makes the program's user interface more efficient. The ability to create macros using the Hotkey control is one of the programs highlights.

Hotkey control allows the user to set the keyboard commands into the command line and then simply press a key combination or combination of keys to activate them. This means that the user can increase the speed of his work, particularly when the keys are assigned the most common operations.
