6process.blogspot.com .Determination of C2-C10 linear alkanes in air by liquid-liquid microextraction coupled with isotope ratio mass spectrometry. A novel extraction method, liquid-liquid microextraction coupled with isotope ratio mass spectrometry, was developed for the simultaneous determination of C(2)-C(10) linear alkanes in air. Essential oils with high adsorption ability for alkanes were selected as the extraction solvent. Some parameters affecting the enrichment efficiencies, such as the extraction solvent, dispersive solvent, salt type and salt amount, extraction time, and stirring rate were investigated. In addition, the method was developed with two deuterium-labeled alkanes, (d(3)-n-C(10)H(23)) and (d(3)-n-C(8)H(21)), to quantify them and determine the concentration ratio of the naturally occurring alkanes (n-C(8)-C(10)). This method was applied to the analysis of alkanes in atmospheric samples and the recovery ranged from 86.8% to 113.1%, and the coefficient of variation was less than 15%.I. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a packet transfer mechanism used in a packet communication system such as a digital video server. II. Description of the Related Art In a digital video system, when a digital video signal is processed, a digital video signal is compressed to lower a transfer rate. That is, a digital video signal that has been compressed to reduce a transfer rate and encoded is transferred to a video server (or a video distribution center (VCD)) from a video output section
