She usually creates a concept and character design while the latter draws and storyboard the scene. Taya is best known for her Magical Girl Raison d'être series where she has been illustrating since 1999. Biography Taya was born in the Higashi-ku ward of Sapporo, Hokkaido and grew up in the city of Moosonee. She attended Senshu University in Sapporo and majored in Communication Arts. At school she was known for illustrations in her school newspapers and the publications, Itsukaure (a title of a magazine geared towards women), and like her father in the art industry, Asa Taya, she exhibited her drawings at several events. In 1993, she won an honorable mention at the Junior High School Art Festival for her illustration of Hoshi no Sekai ("The World of Hoshi") which she based on her own childhood experiences and on fictional characters. The experience inspired her to become a full-time artist. Since 1999 she created the Magical Girl Raison d'être manga series. The series are published by Fujimi Shobo, and so far eleven volumes have been published. Her co-workers at Fujimi Shobo are,, Keiko Kimura, Takeshi Miyazaki, and Yoko Nakuwa. In 2000 Taya also illustrated two short stories for Fujimi Shobo's Mœbius and Chrome series of manga.
