The book should consist at least of 3 sheets. Each sheet is two-sided and consisting of 2 .Q: How do you get the reference type using reflection from a generic type? I have a typeof-like function I'm writing, and I have a type that should just return the type-ref, not the actual type: public static Type GetTypeRef() where T : new() { var type = new T(); var typeInfo = typeof(T).GetTypeInfo(); return typeInfo.GetGenericTypeDefinition(); } ...is not working, because typeInfo.GetGenericTypeDefinition() is returning the generic definition of T, not the equivalent TypeRef as I'm expecting. I'm just trying to get the Type of the generic type, i.e. Type.GetType("System.Int32") instead of System.Int32. Can anyone help me figure this one out? A: If you want to access the generic definition, cast the object to Type to get an instance of the generic type, and use that type as the argument: public static Type GetTypeRef() where T : new() { var type = new T(); var typeInfo = typeof(T).GetTypeInfo(); return typeInfo.GetGenericTypeDefinition(); } If you are only interested in the type, then just call: public static Type GetTypeRef() where T : new() { var type = typeof(T); return type; } Known printed 82138339de
