

S olenka Pfeiffer Hi, I installed SC7 V8.0 on SIMATIC one PCS 7010 on a second PCS 7010. The SCM initialization was working correctly. But when I try to enter a new production plant SCM CRITBL just returns me a "Run Time Software Error # 1433 (ext) CFC does not exist" over and over again. I already tested the CRITBL2.tbl from my other PCS7 (different I think) and it was working. I also checked the SQL select statements for "CFC" and in the Production Plant select list the CFC exists. Does anybody know what could be wrong here? Sven Kuhr Hello I know that there is a simatic cfc v8.1. But the problem is that I want to implement i CFC on pc 7 610 and I need to know if that's compatible or not. Sylvia Steinbacher "Hi, I installed SC7 V8.0 on SIMATIC one PCS 7010 on a second PCS 7010." Sorry for the double post hints or suggestions? Sylvia Steinbacher Here the answers to your questions. Sylvia Steinbacher Ok, I've read it. Thank you :-) hints or suggestions? Sylvia Steinbacher Well, I don't use iSCM as SCM. But I see that you are using CRITBL2.tbl. Sylvia Steinbacher Next time try to create a new CRITBL2.tbl and check if that works. hints or suggestions? Sylvia Steinbacher I found a program (PCS7SCM32) that we use in the factory that has its own CRITBL2.tbl. So you can try to use that instead of the CRITBL2.tbl you have now. Sylvia Steinbacher Here the information about that (the program): Sylvia Steinbacher "PCS7SCM32 is software for the qualification of software in Siemens S7 Communication Manager. It includes the software for the qualification of the production of SCM systems, test workflows, Test and Validation diagrams, worklist maintenance, Work

Upregulation of P2X7 receptor and acid sphingomyelinase in rats experiencing chronic pain: A potential pathogenic mechanism of peripheral neuropathy. Chronic pain is a major clinical syndrome and a source of chronic suffering.

Although central sensitization is considered a critical mechanism underlying chronic pain, the role of peripheral sensitization in chronic pain is still less clear. Previous studies have implicated purinergic signaling in peripheral sensitization. In this study, we used rats to investigate whether purinergic signaling participates in the development of neuropathic pain.

Rat models of chronic pain were developed via the tibial and sural transection procedures. We examined the mRNA and protein levels of purinergic receptor subtypes and the activity of acid sphingomyelinase (ASM) in the spinal cords and DRGs of rats undergoing chronic pain. We found that in rats undergoing chronic pain, the mRNA and protein levels of P2X7 receptors (P2X7R) in the DRGs and the spinal cords were significantly increased. Similarly, the protein levels of ASM were significantly elevated.

Exogenous ATP-induced mechanical allodynia was suppressed by intrathecal injection of the P2X7R antagonist A-740003. These data demonstrate that increased expression of P2X7R in the DRGs, spinal cord and peripheral nerves of rats with chronic pain is associated with the development of hypersensitivity. Upregulation of P2X7R activates ASM, which may be a pathogenic factor in the development of neuropathy.
