Bottle, engraved with Anchor Hocking and Anchor Hocking logo. A graphic of a ship upon a blue background with a roman numeral "1" with a sea green "N" underneath it. Similar to a Belgian ale bottle, the letters are diamond shaped, with a larger "N". The dimensions of the bottle are: Height 12.25 inches; Width 7. I have a bottle I found in Atlanta Georgia I know its a machine bottle I can not find any info on it it is aqua green it is 8 inches tall 5 inches from top says Hagan & Dodd co below that it says red rock below that Atlanta Georgia on very bottom says red rock if any one can help me email me at loganwarrrengyahoo.com thanks for any help It was a bottle you get when you go to D.C. or some a party or something. Maybe a local baseball event. When you get the bottle you want to be like "WHOA! What is this! I never knew that! I'll never forget this!" or some kind of that. They sell for cheap and the bottle is really cool. It's big, it's heavy, it's shaped like a swan with jagged parts, and most important it has a label stuck on the inside that says in gold script "38 " on the front. On the back it's just some random employee numbers. One of the numbers is a 9, and I know that it's a 9 because I asked my friend who works for Anchor Hocking. He said that it's an 8, and we all laughed. I don't know if that's a big deal, but if it is it's kinda ridiculous. Has anyone here acquired a glass press bottle dating to the 1940's, and has a 1/8" (.320) underneath the 9 in the corner on the bottom of the glass? A number 8. Was looking for a date, but nothing coming up on a regular search. Thanks for any help
