Vaidyanatha Ashtakam Lyrics In Tamil Pdf 40

One of the items of worship for Lord Shiva was to offer prayers to the God, in the form of a chant or a composition of poetry in his praise. This chant is called aShastra and we know it as Ashtakam. The composition of poems praising the Lord were written in Sanskrit language. Only after a thousand years could these compositions be written in other languages. These devotional songs, in praise of the various incarnations of God (in one form or another), as well as the form of chant, have become popular among the South Indian Hindus. Thus, the composition of Ashtakam is written in the form of a composition of short verse, in this case, in Tamil. Hence, the people of Tamilnadu compose or sing their Ashtakam in Tamil. When a village or a temple is built, the moolavar (icon of the chief god) is always provided with a recording of the Ashtakam and this is called  $\square\square\square\square\square\square\square\square$ . The people sing this Ashtakam in their homes. The moolavar is offered Ashtakam in the morning after the prayers and in the evening after the rituals. The Sanskrit Poet, Appar, who flourished in the 7th century, was a profound scholar, a profound thinker, the author of many hymns, the protector of the Tamil language and the Tamil Music. This is the reason that it is his compositions that are sung in the Temple during the Chaththi Festival and special presentations. He composed pooja padigams for Temple Doors, for the decorators and he also composed the introduction of the Saiva Siddhantha. The Ashtakam which is composed in praise of Lord Shiva, is actually dedicated to Lord Siva. The Pooja Padigams which are composed in praise of Lord Siva, are known as Padaishttu. This is the first Ashtakam which was sung in praise of Lord Siva. It is composed in praise of Siva before He assumed the form of Linga. Hence, it is called Lakshmi Pooja Padigams. It was sung in Saivaite temples only.
