It is, of course, the curators of the exhibit, who have taken every week's skill or intellectual achievement of the museums and compiled it under one cover, free together with thoughtful, genial commentary and many bibliographies and authoritative articles. This is one case where the installation serves as the supplement. Some people will take to it at once, as they do everything new and strange. The true nature of things will be reawakened in them, since they see themselves in it; those that are already in the skin of the cultural world can read it only as a foreign document, a kind of grammar which they have neither the talent nor the time to study; while the elements that contradict it's formulas and their own habits will go undecipherable. When this happens, the discussion begins. g, but it has to be understood that there is a reason for it as well. It is true that, if one decides to contact physics directly, one can only be satisfied with a rationalist, materialist picture of the universe; if one asks what the laws of physics are that make the universe what it is, one will only get the rationalist, materialist picture of the universe. In the episode "Heroine" of BSG, there is an argument between Starbuck and Dr. Baltar over the existence of the Earth. Baltar claims that the Earth is a myth and Starbuck claims that Baltar took her to a planet he claims is Earth. According to Wikipedia, this is the first time humans ever encountered Cylon technology. Is it possible that Baltar's planet was inhabited by the Cylons in some time or the Cylons did probe their universe to find the planet Earth? A: He claims that he's taken her to Earth.

BALTAR Okay. If you're not willing to believe, then that's fine. But they're out there. Look at me. I'm a walking, talking, living proof. You think you're the only ones out there? Go ahead. Take a look. You'd be surprised what you find. And he could be lying:

BALTAR No. It's not true. There are other worlds in the universe out there, other people, more than people, but no other humans. They're out there somewhere. You think they'd be alone? Okay, maybe they're somewhere in the city, just like I found you. You think they'll be safe? People don't understand the destruction of Earth. They don't understand hunger, or survival. They don't know what it's like to burn. What they do understand is fear. Fear of Cylons, the Cylons themselves. There's nowhere that they won't look to find you, to take you back to their ship, to breed with you. Not on this planet and not in our universe. The Nine Worlds will be gone, assimilated by the Cylons. There will be no Earth. There will be no humanity. And the Cylons will own this universe. I have seen it. I have seen the Cylon-Cylon war firsthand. It's no myth. No legend. It's happening now, right now. You don't know how lucky you are to be here. You don't know how lucky your universe is to be here. If we hadn't found Earth, if you hadn't found us, there wouldn't be any of us left. And the Cylons would own this universe, this entire planet. All life would be extinguished.
