APVA Office365 GUI Manager Description: This invention relates to a silver halide photographic emulsion, more specifically to a silver halide photographic emulsion suitable for forming photographic layers of color photographic light-sensitive materials and to a method of forming such a silver halide photographic emulsion. High-sensitivity, high-grain-size photographic light-sensitive materials are required for color printing and color copying. To meet such requirements, it has been customary to use an iodide or an iodide and a bromide in combination as a grain-forming silver halide. More specifically, it has been the practice to use, as a grain-forming silver halide, a silver iodobromide, a
