The third workflow is used to create a batch file. A custom action is a series of actions that the user can execute when an event occurs. For instance, if you want to send a message to a friend, you can create a custom action that would allow you to send that message. The workflow formula is the same as a custom action. To create a formula, you can simply drag the required action from the library into the workflow box. The third workflow allows the user to perform several actions simultaneously. For instance, if you want to download a file from a FTP server, you can use this workflow to create a task that would download the file and then run the commands required to make the file an executable.
